SGD CONFERENCE AUTUMN 2014

Date: SATURDAY 8th NOVEMBER 2014

Venue: Imperial College, South Kensington, London SW7 1LU

Title: URBAN:
private and public gardens in the city

Autumn conference – come and be inspired!

Many delegates single out inspiration as the reason they come to SGD conferences and most say this is what they take away from the day.

Urban will continue this tradition and examine making gardens in built-up areas from every angle. Our panel of speakers will inspire and inform.

Patrick Cullina served as the founding Vice President of Horticulture and Park Operations for New York City's High Line. His business focuses on creating beautiful public and private urban spaces.

James Fraser trained in Horticulture in New Zealand. Since moving to London in the mid 1980's, his company Avant Gardener has produced a portfolio of work mainly in the urban environment.

Sue Illman is a landscape architect and garden designer specialising in the creative integration of SuDS and also promotes the sustainable use of water in urban design projects of all types.

Dan Pearson's practice works all over the world on a wide range of projects including urban realm landscapes. These include the garden at Maggie's Centre West London and the proposed Garden Bridge over the Thames.

John Wyer will chair the day.

BOOK NOW! Early bird discount finishes on Friday 19th September 2014.
